August: Summer Holiday Reads

We know that many of you will be taking a well-earned break over the summer, so to help you relax, we've pulled together our top Business Psychology reads from our Autumn 2022/2023 ABP Book Club Events.

Rise and Shine - How to transform your life, morning by morning. Kate Oliver & Toby Oliver

An innovative approach to embracing mornings: the S.H.I.N.E. method. A unique and flexible way to build positive, long-term habits, S.H.I.N.E. represents the five elements we all need in our mornings:

The Ethical Coaches' Handbook: A Guide to Developing Ethical Maturity in Practice. Becoming the ultimate professional coach: Critical reflection, ethical integrity and coach maturity. Wendy-Ann Smith, Jonathan Passmore, Eve Turner, Yi-Ling and David Clutterbuck

With a wide range of essays on ethics in coaching -- technology, culture, team dynamics, feedback and more - this book is a must-read for any coach who is committed to working ethically in an increasingly complex world

"The Psychology of Spies and Spying: Trust, Treason, Treachery" by Adrian Furnham and John Taylor

This book provides insights and advice on addressing the vulnerabilities within an organisation including 'insider threat' and staff betraying their organization as well as many other topics relevant to the business world

What are we listening to?

Steve Apps - ABP Head of Certification

Malcolm Gladwell Revisionist History Podcast

Why am I listening? This is my favourite podcast, probably ever. Malcolm is a genius in my mind, in his ability to tell fact based stories in a way that really provokes your thinking. If you want to start with something big, listen to the episode "The Dog will see you now".

What are we reading?

Robert Annis - ABP Company Secretary

I've recently been re-reading The Psychology of Leadership as it's an oldie but a goodie. Although almost 20 years old, it is an excellent collection of papers on different facets of leadership. It is a useful read and reference guide for all leaders, leaders-to-be or coaches working with leaders, like me.
